Regulations for Staying at the Ibaraki Branch Dojo

(Aikikai Foundation Ibaraki Branch Dojo)

The Ibaraki Branch Dojo was built by the founder of aikido, Ueshiba Morihei O-Sensei, in 1945. It is important as the final place in which O-Sensei underwent training and as the dojo in which present day aikido was brought to completion.

Today the dojo is not preserved purely as a memorial. Its continued operation is specially granted under the understanding of the 3rd Doshu, Ueshiba Moriteru Sensei. Therefore, those who would like to practise here should not treat it just as a place to stay and train, but should seek to experience the spirit of the Founder.

Those wishing to stay and train here must adhere to the following regulations:

- * Those wishing to stay and train must be Aikikai members.
- * The fees for training and accommodation must be paid in advance.

1. Do not touch any important materials at the jinja and dojo.
2. Conserve electricity and water.
3. Implement a cleaning regime for the:
 - (1) dojo, Aikijinja and its precincts
 - (2) front of the dojo and the car park
 - (3) path from the dojo to the jinja
 - (4) dormitory, kitchen/dining-room, bathroom and toilets
4. Keep tidy and in good order:
 - (1) the dormitory (take responsibility for your valuables)
 - (2) your bedding and personal effects on waking
 - (3) the refrigerator (throw out unwanted items)

5. Pay careful attention to the following fire prevention points:

- (1) no smoking in the dojo or dormitory
- (2) check the gas cook-top, heaters and oil-heater for the bath
- (3) check electrical power-points and plugs
- (4) manage carefully the burning of dead leaves etc. outside.

6. Sort rubbish

- (1) Separate rubbish into combustibles, cans and bottles, and plastic bottles

7. Other

Any inappropriate sexual activity will result in immediate expulsion.

There will be no refund of fees paid.
